We are delighted to again share with you yet another newsletter of this year. This is the ninth edition with a full coverage of our program activities, interventions and challenges for the period of July to September. Please enjoy the reading.

Angel’s Center for children with Special Needs participated in the 3rd disability awareness sports gala. This National sports gala has continuously provided great opportunity to create awareness on disability amongst many communities through promoting social integration and increasing self-esteem of special needs children.

The sports gala has also provided disabled children a scene to express themselves with many kinds of indoor games like bottle filling and chair dance.

“Every Child Matters”
Physiotherapy camp.

Angel’s Center participated in the physiotherapy camp which was organized by Nurture Africa. The main purpose of the camp was to provide physiotherapy exercises to children with physical disability. 8 children benefited from the camp and parents reported good results from the camp. One child by the names of Bikingi Ambrose is now able to stand up independently and walk with the support of walking stick.

Angel’s Center documentary

Angel’s Center produced its first ever documentary in July. The main focus of the documentary was to show Uganda’s situation on special needs children and the need to raise funds from international countries such as Belgium to support such children. The following places were captured; the geographical and physical location of Angel’s center, a few homes of special needs children and children with physical disability during the physiotherapy camp at Nurture Africa. Activities carried out at Angel’s Center such as feeding sessions, occupational therapy, speech and language therapy and children while in play areas were also captured. The director Angel’s Center, counselor for people with disability (PWDs) in nansana town council, a few parents and staff members were also interviewed.

The counselor for people with disability said that “There is a strong need for disabled children to be in schools because they are always mistreated at home by house maids and they need to be trained in many areas in order to become independent in future”. Parents that were interviewed gave positive responses towards the great progress and changes they are seeing in their children from the time they brought at Angel’s Center. The director highlighted the successes and challenges that have faced Angel’s Center three years ago. She also elaborated more on the purpose of Angel’s Center which is to address the needs and rights of special needs children. She also emphasized on the roadmap and way forward for Angel’s Center. Appreciations were also given to supporters of Angel’s Center especially the Belgium support group and City of Antwerp.

World Down syndrome day Award.

In the previous Newsletter, we had mentioned that Rosemary Nambuube was nominated in the voluntary and professional category for her outstanding contribution towards the strengthening and enriching the lives of people with Down syndrome. She was invited by the International office to attend the official awarding ceremony at the 12th World Down Syndrome Congress in Chennai, India in August this year, where she went and was handed over her award. Indeed Rosemary travelled to India with one parent from the parents support group and the congress was so executive and she was honored for being the first African lady to receive the award.

Inclusive Education Project

The inclusive education project commenced in July immediately after the funds approved to Angel’s Center. We conducted a situational analysis in 4 schools in wakiso district to identify partner schools in which the project will be implemented. These schools included: St. Marcelino Academy, Blessed Toddlers junior, Moonlight pre-school and Little Stars nursery and day care center. An interview guide was drafted and used as a guiding tool in the assessment exercise. Directors and head teachers were requested to fill in the questions that were in the interview guide.

An inclusive education teachers’ training was organized by Angel’s Center team and took place for 4 days. The purpose of the training aimed at equipping primary school teachers with basic skills and knowledge in Special Needs Education and inclusive education to be practiced in their schools. We invited two teachers from each school to attend and participate in the training and 3 staff members from Angel’s Center also benefited from the training. A total number of 10 female teachers actively participated in the training.
